

Giuseppe Milici

Giuseppe Milici was born in Palermo on November 22nd 1964. He has studied chromatic harmonica with Willi Burger, jazz improvisation with saxophonist Larry Nash, and piano with Salvatore Bonafede.

His talent first emerged in his early collaborations with Enzo Randisi. He gained his first professional experience with Romano Mussolini and Lino Patruno. Since 1983 he has worked as a harmonica player and composer for a number of popular Italian television programs, such as Serata d'onore, Fantastico, Uno su cento, Il numero uno, , Un Natale Italiano, Novecento, I Fatti Vostri, Taratatta, three editions of “the Festival di Sanremo” and “I Fatti Vostri”.

In 1990 Milici was Adriano Mazzoletti's guest on the popular jazz program RadioUno Sera Jazz. On that occasion he met Martial Solal, who said, “Milici has the right feeling and shows he knows everything about jazz.”

Milici was also a member of the first European Jazz Orchestra, conducted by James Newton. Milici has worked extensively in the world of film, playing on the soundtracks of such movies as The Magician, starring Anthony Quinn and for television series, such as Avvocato Porta, starring Gigi Proietti and Tutti I Sogni del Mondo, with Serena Autieri. He also played on the score for the movie Vaniglia e Cioccolato, with Mariagrazia Cucinotta. He wrote the soundtrack for La Terramadre, directed by Nello La Marca, screened at the 2008 Berlin Film Festival.

In his long career he has performed several times in the U.S.A. (the Blue Note in New York), Holland (the Theater Carré), Switzerland, Morocco, Australia, England, France, South Africa (the Great Hall at Witz University), Mozambique, Swaziland, Germany, Polland, Japan (the Blue Note in Tokyo), Korea and Argentina. He plays with the group Dirotta su Cuba, performing alongside such internationally renowned artists as Laura Fygi, Philip Catherine and Toots Thielemans, and receiving public and media acclaim.

In 1998, Milici began working in classical music, performing music by Gyorgy Kurtag with conductor Zoltan Pesco, and music by Bach, Gordon Jacob, M. Betta and Giovanni Sollima with the Ottava Nota ensemble. In 2001, he worked with popular comedian Riccardo Pazzaglia, and played on recordings by Gigi D'Alessio, Gino Paoli, Dirotta su Cuba, and Ivan Segreto. His composition “November 64” became a theme song for cultural programs on the Italian television station RAI 3.

In 2002 he was invited to perform with his quartet at Castel Sant'Angelo in Rome. In 2003 he toured in Italy with the writer Evelina Santangelo, who was presenting her book La Lucertola Color Smeraldo. The two appeared on RAI radio program Fahrenheit. That same year, Milici was interviewed by Alex Pierotti for RAI International, and was a guest of Stefano Spadoni's on the Big Apple radio station in New York. In December he recorded the CD November 64, described by Toots Thielemans as "well played and well produced." In 2005, he recorded the CD Beatles Jazz Tribute, which was presented at the Fashion Week in Paris. He was also a guest on several RAI broadcasts, including Fahrenheit, Notturmo Italiano, and Taccuino Italiano. That same year he played at the Blue Note Jazz Club in New York and in Milan. In 2007, with Eliot Zigmund, Bill Moring and Mauro Schiavone, he recorded a tribute to the music of Burt Bacharach. In June, he played at the Teatro La Fenice in Venice with the Sofia Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Maurizio Abeni. In October he played again at the Paris Fashion Week, and with the Innovative String Quintet he played in some historic Buenos Aires clubs.

From 2008 he undertook some international tour that saw him perform on some of the most prestigious stages in theaters around the world, including venues in New York, Paris, Buenos Aires, Maputo, Stuttgart, Dresden, Thessaloniki, Japan and Johannesburg. Close to the popular trumpet player Fabrizio Bosso, Milici plays and records a live cd at "Casa del Jazz" in Rome.

From 2010 works with the singer Antonella Ruggiero and with the actor David Riondino. Milici also realizes the soundtracks: "Ninnarò" and "Miricanu", and is the soloist for the national tv program "Novecento" hosted by Pippo Baudo, where he performs with Amii Stewart. The same year he realize the cd "Michael Jackson Jazz Tribute".

During the last few years he often works for movie soundtracks such as "Il Coraggio", entirely produced in Spain or "Il Figlio Sospeso" directed by Egidio Termine and in recording studios where he realizes some compilation for IRMA Record and played some duets with Peter Ciccotti, Simona Molinari, Ridillo, Caterina Soldati, Matt Bianco, Neja and Mario Rosini. 2015 Milici records in New York his album "Amarsi Un Po" with Mike Eckroth, Marco Panascia and Eliot Zigmund and becomes part of the music selection of KLM flights.

In recent years he has performed several times in Asia between Japan and Korea and works alongside extraordinary artists such as Giancarlo Giannini, Francesca Alotta and Aleandro Baldi, Sasà Salvaggio, Cochi Ponzoni, Papik, Mario Rosini, Gigi Cifarelli and Dario Deidda. The CD recorded in Japan with Francesco Buzzurro and Nicola Giammarinaro has recently been released, while the album tribute to the great Ennio Morricone will soon be released.